

Newsmakers

Don't mess with Kid Rock's lawyers!

Kid Rock's tribe of litigators, William Horton, Mike Novak and Kaveh Kashef, scored Tuesday in federal court, with Judge John Feikens granting a preliminary injunction against Red Light Entertainment, the miscreants who were trying to sell the Kid Rock/Scott Stapp X-rated tour bus video. Among other things, Feikens ruled that Red Light must stop selling, promoting or taking orders for the video (pow!) that Rock's, aka Robert Ritchie's, image must be electronically obscured in any copies being used legally (bam!), and that the defendants need to pony up the names and addresses of the folks who sold them the video in the first place (ka-boom!) as well as anybody else who might have it. The next court date: July 1.

Kid Rock knocks out the sex tape distributors.

Getty Images

